Bay St. Louis Home Destroyed By Fire

EMPTY HOSES lie on St. John St. Thursday night as the home of Mrs. Eloise Necaise is consumed by fire. Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian fire units arrived on the scene to find that city utility crews had neglected to activate the water.

main feeding hydrants on St. John. Water in the 500 gallon tanks was insufficient in force and volume to control the blaze.

The home of Mrs. Eloise Necaise at 524 St. John St. burned to the ground Thursday night while four fire trucks from three cities stood by, unable to get water from fire hydrants across the street from the house.

The Bay St. Louis Fire Department received the call at 6:40 p.m. and answered with both fire trucks. A grease fire which had originated in the kitchen had already spread into the living room of the house when the trucks arrived, as well as into the attic and roof through the stove ventilator in the kitchen. Flames were coming out of roof ventilators.

Several uncontrollable factors contributed to the intensity of the conflagration and the ultimate loss of the structure and contents. Two whirlybird vents on the roof and high winds caused a draft throughout the house, rapidly spreading the flames.

When the two Bay fire trucks arrived, firemen hooked up to the hydrant and found that the water line on St. John street was inactive. Waveland Volunteer and Pass Christian Fire Depts. answered calls for help and all four units had to fight the fire with water in their 500-gallon tanks. A city utility department employee was also called to activate the water line.

Fire trucks worked on relays filling tanks from active hydrants on St.

Francis and Main streets until the St. John St. line was opened at 7:45 p.m. Poor traffic control hampered fire fighters as did crowds of onlookers, two of whom had to be threatened with arrest when the two men refused to relinquish a hose to firemen. They also interfered with city police and the Echo reporter in the discharge of their duties.

According to Mrs. Necaise, the fire started when her daughter was frying meat on the stove. She left the kitchen and on her return a few minutes later, the stove was a mass of flames. The girl reportedly threw salt on the fire attempting to extinguish the flames, which erupted even higher and were sucked into the attic through the ventilator.

When Mrs. Necaise, who had been visiting elsewhere, returned to the house she found the fire well underway and called the fire department.

Full responsibility for the lack of water was assumed by the city utility department. Utility Commissioner William Frisbie explained that water lines were installed to the annexed section of the city, which included the St. John St. sector, in November. Water was shut off recently following an inspection by the Hancock County Health Department and had never been turned back on. However, this hadn't hampered residents in the neighborhood as none had yet hooked up to the city water system.

About three weeks ago the water was approved for use by the Health Dept. and Chief Fayard was notified of that fact. Apparently, Frisbie stated, when the line was re-chlorinated the crew neglected to release the main valve. The error went unnoticed until the night of the fire.

The house and all contents were totally destroyed. The incident is still under investigation, Fayard said.

Board Approves Title IV Program

By a vote of three to two, in an executive session, Hancock County board of education Jan. 18 voted in favor of instituting the Title IV-A Program at the Gulfview School and at Kiln. It also accepted the list of teachers, aids, janitors and cooks as presented.

Meeting in the office of K.G. McCarty, county superintendent of education, the board received a petition from Woodrow Ladner to discontinue the Title III program which is a three-year program now in operation. The petition, signed by parents of Hancock North Central High School students, and containing 78 to 80 signatures will have to be checked to make certain all signers have a child or grandchild attending the school in question.

Prior to the closed session, Ed Orta, who has served as a school board member for 13 years, from May 1961 to Dec. 31, 1972, and has been board president for eight of those years, was presented an engraved plaque in recognition of his services. The presentation was made by Supt. McCarty.

McCarty reported to the board he has investigated facilities at the Gulfview School and found that it has an available classroom that can be used for the five-year-old kindergarten children without interfering with the other students in the school. A building owned by Mrs. Eric Larsen at Kiln will be used as the other facility for the kindergarten program.

In the executive session Ed LeVasseur explained the financial setup of the program, and Ruble Griffin, board attorney, explained the legal aspects.

When the vote came, Eric Larsen, Lamar Lee and Horace Davis, Jr. voted yes and Tommy Shaw and Johnny Banks voted against acceptance.

The program will extend through June 30 of this year. The building at Kiln as a Title IV-A center has been okayed at a previous meeting and was reaffirmed Thursday by the board.

The list of teachers and workers rejected at meetings on Jan. 2 and Jan. 8, was accepted Thursday as presented on these dates with the exception of one addition, Mrs. Vivian Lee, who was approved.

The motion to accept the list, including the name of Mrs. Lee, was made by Larsen and seconded by Lamar Lee. Davis, as president of the board, cast the tie-breaking vote in favor of the motion.

A new project for special education to dovetail with the Title IV-A program was also discussed as a future project.

The next meeting of the board was set for Feb. 23 at 6 p.m.

Power Company Makes Payments

"Mississippi Power Company's franchise payments and taxes for local, state, and federal governments for 1972 will amount to over $13.1 million, reflecting, in part, the increase in the area's use of electric power and the effect of our continuing program of construction and expansion to meet these needs," V.J. Daniel, Jr., company president, announced today.

Mr. Daniel explained that over $4.9 million of the payments were for ad valorem taxes. Franchise payments in excess of $1.5 million, representing three percent of Mississippi Power Company's gross revenues in the incorporated cities and towns in which the utility operates, are paid directly to the municipalities.

Additionally, customers of the company paid over $2.2 million in the usual sales taxes on their electric service.

"Mississippi Power Company's total tax payments for the year required almost 18 cents out of each dollar of revenue received and were equal to over 57 percent of all revenue received from its residential customers," he said. "The $13.1 million in taxes and franchise payments is one of our greatest items of expense and consequently represents a substantial part of the cost of electric service."

Local Manager Perry Gibson said that Mississippi Power Company's 1972 ad valorem taxes and franchise payments to Hancock County and its municipalities totaled $153,105.42. Ad valorem taxes and franchise payments to the City of Bay St. Louis were $48,829.72 and to the City of Waveland were $15,908.10.

Mr. Daniel said that the tax and franchise payments emphasize the important role of taxpaying businesses and industry in providing part of the financial support vital to the operation of government at all levels.

A member of The Southern Company, Mississippi Power Company is one of the largest taxpayers in the 23 southeast Mississippi counties in which it operates.

Gulfport Man Arrested On Possession

A Gulfport man was fined $300 in Bay St. Louis city court last Wednesday night on charges of narcotics possession and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Henry Smith, 36, was stopped by Bay St. Louis police Jan. 23 on Highway 90 after police received a call from the Long Beach Police Department giving a description of Smith's car. Long Beach police requested the check because Smith appeared to be driving recklessly.

Smith was placed under arrest after less than an ounce of marijuana and five amphetamine tablets were found in his car.

Smith was detained in Hancock County jail under $5,000 bond until the hearing was held.

City Judge Joseph Benvenuti found Smith guilty as charged and levied the fine of $300 plus court costs.

Arresting officers were Assistant Chief Douglas Williams and Patrolman Emmitt Ellis assisted by Mississippi Highway Safety Patrolman Clyde Hester.

FIREMAN ON FIRE-grimacing in pain, Assistant Fire Chief Robert Andrews moves away from a blazing air conditioner moments after Freon in the unit exploded, catching his pants leg on fire. The incident happened Thursday night when a St. John street home was destroyed by fire. Andrews extinguished the fire in his clothing with the hose.

'Superdome Reaching For The Sky' Levy Says

"New Orleans' Superdome is reaching for the sky now," was the way Bernard Levy, Louisiana Superdome Commission executive Director, described the celebrated structure nearing completion in the Crescent City, during his address January 24 at the Chamber of Commerce annual membership banquet.

Levy was guest speaker for the banquet which drew a capacity crowd to the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club for yearly membership achievement awards and announcement of new board of directors.

Speaking by his own admission "strictly off the cuff," Levy reeled off an impressive list of statistics on the $152 million public facility which has been described by the New York Times as expected to "make all other stadiums in existence as obsolete as Rome's Colosseum", and by a number of the city's residents as "the biggest tax folly in the history of the state".

Formerly chief administrative officer for the city of New Orleans serving under two mayors, Levy was appointed executive director of the Superdome Commission a little more than a year ago.

Financing for the Superdome comes from three sources, Levy explained; the major share of $129.5 million from the sale of revenue bonds which will be serviced by income from the Superdome, a four percent hotel-motel occupancy tax which produced $2.5 million in 1972, and investment of temporarily idle municipal funds. Total construction costs of $93.5 million will be paid throughout the construction period to be retired on completion of the project, coinciding with expiration of idle municipal fund investments. At that point, Levy continued, the

Three Arrested At Junior High On Drug Possession

Three juvenile boys were arrested by Special Agent Ronald Peterson Friday at Bay Junior High School when they were caught smoking a marijuana cigarette in the school building. School authorities cooperated in making the arrest, Peterson said, after he received a tip from an undisclosed source.

The three youths, two 14-year-olds and a 13-year-old, in possession of two vials half-full of marijuana and a roach (marijuana cigarette) holder, as well as a cigarette. The boys were booked at the county jail on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia and were turned over to juvenile authorities for further action.

Programs Signup Opens February 5

With signup in the 1973 feed grain, wheat and cotton programs due to open in less than two weeks, Pearl River and Hancock County producers have many decisions to make, reports Richard Bloodworth, Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Executive Director.

"In these coming weeks, each producer with a feed grain base or wheat or cotton allotment must make his individual decisions on whether to participate in the programs, and, if so, what he plans to choose among those that are offered.

"Judging by past years, somewhere from fifteen to twenty percent of Pearl River-Hancock County farmers will sign up in one or more of the programs—40 round numbers, between 300 to 350," Mr. Bloodworth said.

Signup for the 1973 feed grain, wheat and cotton programs is scheduled February 5 through March 16 at the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, 103 West Cumberland Street, Poplarville, Mississippi.

Participants in the feed grain set-aside program will decide whether to sign up for the 39 percent plan or the 15 percent plan. Wheat producers must determine whether they want additional set-aside beyond that required for participation.

"Those are the main program decisions a farmer will make, once he decides to be in one or more of the programs," Mr. Bloodworth said, "but his entire farm operating plan for the year is tied in with his decisions on farm program participation.

"Before he signs up, he will want to know what land he is going to set aside if he's in the feed grain or wheat programs, and he will have decided what crops he's going for—whether he will substitute crops, whether he will grow an alternate crop on his set-aside land and take a payment reduction."

Substitution is continued in the 1973 farm programs, the ASC executive director pointed out. He explained that substitution means a producer may choose among the following crops—corn, grain sorghum, barley, wheat, soybeans—and still preserve his farm's base or allotment record, earn program payments; and be eligible for loans so long as he stays within other program requirements.

Alternate crops permitted on set-aside land, if a producer accepts a reduction in program payment, include sunflower, safflower, sesame, guar, mustard seed, castor beans, crambe, and plantago ovate.

"These and other details of the 1973 programs for feed grains, wheat and cotton will be available to producer through leaflets and explanations offered by the county ASCS office before signup begins and throughout the rest of the year," Mr. Bloodworth said.

What are the advantages of the Council-Manager System?

To begin with, more democratic and better representation. A mayor and councilmen are elected. They set policy and they appoint a trained professional administrator to follow their policies. The administrator may be removed or changed at any time by vote of the mayor and councilmen. A basic concept of efficient government is that policy makers are elected administrators are appointed.

Better, more qualified people may be elected to office.

Under the council manager system the elected officials would only meet weekly or semi-weekly (as does our present city council) to decide policy and resolve problems. The day by day duties and administration are carried out by appointed personnel. Because of this concept, businessmen, professional men, and community leaders may all serve as mayor or council members under the council manager system since it would not require full time participation.

On a quiet summer night in Hancock County, while enjoying a light breeze and listening to the sounds the world makes, you may hear a slight humming noise in the distance. Soon it builds to a buzz and finally, rises to a crescendo.

Could it be some strange project at MTF, you ask? (After all, do you REALLY know what they're doing out there?) Or perhaps the Army is testing jets and using Interstate-10 as a landing field?

You listen closely and begin to realize that the sounds are human voices and...drums?

Indians? A rock band? No.

It's the local rumor mongers drum beating their messages to various outposts set up throughout the county.

Every night, in all kinds of weather, their thoughts are put into words and their words into musical notes.

Why drums? Why not telephones, you ask?

Everyone knows our phones are tapped by the CIA, the IRS and NBC.

Those who are unfamiliar with this musical Morse code may be hard put to translate these warnings. Therefore, as a public service, The Sea Coast Echo has located a copy of "1000 Rumors For Every Occasion".

In chapter three of this handy little book, there is a section entitled, "Decoding Drum Beats and How To Make Your Family Love Leftovers".

Printed below are the beats most used by local watchdogs:

Boom-Boom-Thump: An elected official has embezzled $2 million and is building a ranch in Venezuela.

Boom-Thump-Boom: Everyone at MTF is scheduled to be fired at midnight June 24, 1973.

Thump-Thump-Boom: Law enforcement officials are working with the FBI to weed out Communists who have infiltrated the local bingo games.

Boom-Boom-Boom: Premium gasoline rather than super-regular is being used in all county equipment.

Thump-Thump-Thump: Officials plan to blacktop the sand beach to save the cost of cleaning it.

Boom-Thump-Boom-Thump: A motorcycle gang from California has selected Hancock County as the site for its 1974 convention.

Thump-Boom-Thump-Boom: A federally-funded program proposed for Hancock County is a subversive plot by Congress to get in here and bring in a lot of outsiders who plan to take over.

Thump-Boom: Messenger has to sign off because he saw spies in the woods tapping every "thump-boom".

This handy guide should be clipped out and put in a safe place.

And the next time you're rocking on your porch and you think you hear someone playing "Night and Day"

BEWARE!

The next thump boom you hear could be about you!

Club Appoints Committees

It was announced that the club's main workshop for the new year will consist of an in-depth study of local bird species. Members will be encouraged to attract birds to their gardens through the use of plants, feeders, houses and fresh water.

Mrs. W. R. Schaefer's entry was judged best in the cultivated group. Mrs. John Bordages-horticulture, Mrs. Honore Hugh-dried, Mrs. J. C. Goodloe-miniature and Mrs. J. E. Servat-potted.

The club's February 19 meeting will be held at the Daniel St. home of Mrs. K. T. Breland.

Artists Preserve Nature's Gifts In Metal

A wild duck by Ashome, sitting in the studio window is stopped momentarily in flight, his neck and wings outstretched, making the viewer envious of his freedom.

Text by Adoree Shortle

Photos by Marileen Maher

"They are beautiful people," she said, "and the things they make are beautiful in their truth."

And we discovered she spoke the truth, the young woman who called herself Moira, which she pronounced Mo-e-ra.

She spoke of the two inspired young artists, living with their wives and children in Waveland, who are creating and sculpting in metal beautifully faithful reproductions of nature's objects which they study here on the coast.

Wayne Morgan, who is originally from Oklahoma, and Steve Frewin, from Utah, are exceptionally gifted artists who have been successfully working in the relatively new medium of metal sculpture.

Professionally they use their real names but in their daily lives Steve is known as Okala and Wayne as Ashome. These names are part of their philosophy of life which teaches the subjugation of Self and inspires creativity as part of the eternal life cycle.

As their adopted names are a composite of their spiritual beliefs, so are the manifestations of their art. Almost impossible to describe in conventional terms, their creations touch more than the sense of sight. Looking at them, one is struck by the wonder of turning cold, hard expressionless metal into an object that contains warmth, movement and vibrancy, a pleasure to see, hear and touch.

Fish and wildfowl, murmuring waterfalls and still ponds, bullrushes and lily pads—the flora and fauna anyone can see in these parts if he is really looking and listening, and which are at best fleeting—these young men both in their twenties are recording "forever" with welding irons in copper and brass.

"Metal is durable and can last forever," Okala explained. "A factual record of what is NOW will last in metal, through which we are attempting to record nature's gifts, especially those which are becoming extinct."

Originally a painter, Okala was searching for a new dimension in artistic creativity when he met Ashome four years ago in New Orleans. Ashome had been working for about a year in metal sculpture and he taught Okala what he knew.

The medium is not easy and it takes not only great concentration but a capacity for self-discipline to produce a significant work of art. They use copper and brass mostly, finding the metals a far more satisfactory material than stone or clay. Metal is considerably more malleable under fire, Okala said, giving the artist greater freedom in movement and form.

Depending on what they're making, a sculpture can take hours or weeks to finish. Once when they needed the money, the two artists made six fountains in five days, setting up a production assembly line with their wives helping. Everyone worked feverishly round the clock to produce the six finished pieces. "I don't ever want to have to do that again," Ashome said quietly.

However, on another occasion, Ashome got so involved in a sculpture he worked with the torch and molten metal for 36 straight hours. When he was finished, he walked outside into the dawn—and passed out on the lawn.

Part of the artist goes into every piece he creates, sometimes literally. When one is planning a particular piece he may sit for three days contemplating the big shapeless piece of metal, trying to visualize what form he hopes to create.

Once they've started working, both artists say they don't always control the direction and movement of the metal. The sounds that come from working with the hammer and tools tell him when it's right. There can be no artificial music or outside sounds to intrude, only the sound of hammering and molding the inanimate material until, often after hours of working non-stop, as "love and peace flow from my hands and are transmitted into the molecules of the metal" an almost musical sound begins to emanate from the object.

Then he knows that it's right. In forming a bird in flight, for instance, the artist may attempt to bend the head or wing in a particular direction which he soon realizes is wrong. It feels wrong, it looks wrong, and the sounds are discordant. When he lets it shape itself, the sound tells him it's right. Even when he stops working the sound continues like an unbroken thread.

"Then," Okala said, "I know my Self is not a part of this work and I can become only another tool through which this creation can take form."

Although Ashome's interests are more widely diverse as to subject matter, Okala is concentrating at this particular time on the wild birds still so plentiful not only in our woods but within the heart of our two cities. In metropolitan jungles of concrete and steel (and people to match) one can't have experiences such as one that Okala describes.

Moira and Okala

Ashome and his wife, Mayaviva

He went into the wooded area behind his Waveland home one day to find a female Cardinal to study the coloring for one he was sculpting in brass. He followed the bird's song deeper and deeper into the heavy underbrush and thicket of trees until suddenly, he realized he was lost. He hadn't any idea which way the way back to his house.

"I felt ridiculous," he said laughing, "I could hear voices nearby in one direction and the sounds of traffic and people in the other direction but there was no visible way out. Here I was lost within the city limits and within a few hundred yards of my house." He crawled through the dense underbrush, this time following the voices, until he came onto a street and "walked home."

"It was a great experience," he said. They do not necessarily restrict themselves to nature and have both done many other things such as a great winged serpent in brass, (a dragon if you wish) and mythological in concept, which hangs on Ashome's wall and is the only thing in all these years that she has been able to keep, his wife says plaintively.

Water falls through Ashome's fountain as a large sparkling bird of paradise sits regally, his long tail curving down to meet the fern clustered in the back.

Ashome carefully works with the torch to unite two parts of his fountain.

Okala's golden carp leaps out of a lily pond to catch a smaller fish, and hangs suspended over lily pads and bullrushes.

Behind the fountain, a cluster of great copper fern fronds, beautifully accurate in detail, shimmered and quivered at the slightest touch very like some strange flower at the depths of the sea.

What brought you here to Waveland, they were asked. They came to visit friends and were enchanted with the beauty and serenity of the area and the gentleness of the people, was the answer. Also the gifts of nature they try to capture are still here in unspoiled abundance.

Although the two men live and work in Waveland they bring all their creations to art galleries and studios in New Orleans for sale.

"One has to sustain life and meet obligations," the interviewer conceded, "but how can you bear to part with something you have created and that is so much a part of you?"

It isn't always easy, they said, but this is part of the life cycle. One creates and produces and these objects are meant to be shared so they, too, can produce, if only pleasure for another being. The great pity is that the things they copy from our woods and preserve in permanent mobile beauty are not staying here. They are being brought where there is a ready market and demand. Nor will the two artists and their families remain for long. They'll both leave eventually for other locales and esthetic experiences.

If only there were some philanthropic person who loved this coast enough to commission these two young artists for a collection of sculptures indigenous to this area. Then when the flowers, fish and fowl are gone, the collection would remain as a reminder of what once was -- a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Council Develops Project Plan

Final decisions concerning the Southeast Mississippi Resource Conservation and Development Project Plan have been made, according to Frank Lee, councilman from Hancock County. It involves three top priority items for Hancock in the fields of recreation, erosion control and waste disposal.

For the past year, the council has been developing a project plan for the 23 Southeast Mississippi Counties. The Plan, approved recently in Hattiesburg, will be submitted to Washington for approval.

The Pat Harrison Waterway District and Soil and Water Conservation Districts within the project area are sponsors of the project. The sponsors objectives are to help stimulate local people to action which will bring economic, social and environmental benefits to Southeast Mississippi through the conservation, development and wise use of natural and human resources.

The project plan includes about 200 RCD measures submitted by various groups which the Council has adopted. Efforts will be made to find ways and means of implementing these and other measures which will be received in the future.

The council adopted a priority list for RCD measures to give guidance in assisting measure sponsors. High priority measures submitted from Hancock County include: Leetown Lake and Recreation Area, Hancock County Solid Waste Disposal System, and Necaise-Caesar Road Erosion Control.

Who's To Blame

"For want of a nail, a shoe was lost,
For want of a shoe a horse was lost,
For want of a horse a rider was lost...."

So goes the ancient proverb, particularly apt in connection with the fire Thursday night in Bay St. Louis when, tragically, an entire home was lost for want of water in a fire hydrant. Four fire engines fully equipped were lined up before the house, their 500-gallon tanks ineffective to quell the roaring flames which quickly consumed the house because three weeks earlier city utility crews had neglected to turn the water on after a recent report from the health department.

Everyone made mistakes and on later reflection, it became apparent that no one involved was without sin. NOR was the incident all the fault of the water department. City utility department crews were careless, the department head was negligent, the fire chief didn't double check, the teenager who accidentally started the fire panicked, city police were lax and ineffective, too many onlookers got in the firemen's way and the vultures were allowed to remain, mouthing maledictions.

A week later, the rumor mongers are running rampant and everyone is wildly finger-pointing. Where does the fault really lie? What is fact and what is fiction?

In our opinion, formed not only as an eyewitness to the entire incident but from having watched many fires, it really didn't matter whether or not there was water in the hydrants.

The house was destined to be lost, under any circumstances. What does matter is what will be done to get a little more professionalism at the top? Why do we always have to lose lives and property and wait for tragedy before everyone starts doing what he was supposed to be doing all along?

Hindsight is great, but preventive medicine is better. We're sure there'll be the usual investigation, not in an open hearing where it belongs. And nervous politicians will exploit the tragedy in support of their own ulterior motives and to cover their own ineptitude. A few heads will roll, the smoke will die down, and life will go on.

Until the next one. Because that's the way the public wants it. Obviously.

Crowd Control

One of the biggest problems facing Bay St. Louis firemen Thursday night was the number of spectators—an unusual breed which enjoys having a ringside seat at such things as automobile wrecks, fires and other tragedies common to the human condition.

The reasons why they were there are too numerous and too complex to explain. The fact is that spectators and their automobiles hindered firemen as they tried fighting a fire without water, certainly a large enough problem by itself.

In one instance, there were so many cars blocking the fire lane, one of the fire trucks was forced to ride on the shoulder of the road. This truck contained water brought from another source which would be used to attempt to extinguish the blaze.

Three local citizens, who were neither volunteer nor regular firemen, took it upon themselves to "help" those who were there doing a job. But they did nothing but hinder the effort and Chief Fayard asked police to arrest them.

The men were not arrested. We realize that in times of emergency, it is difficult for police to control crowds. But that is their main function during any disaster.

There are state laws against not only spectators at fires but against any vehicles parked within the block where the fire OCCURS.

Because Bay St. Louis is a small town, we will continue to have spectators plague law enforcement and fire officials.

We suggest, however, that the Bay St. Louis Police Department take immediate steps to insure that something be done to keep the crowds away.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

"Like father, like son" is an expression often used—but not too often accurate. As Gilbert said, "Skin milk masquerades as cream" and sons sometimes masquerade as persons completely different than their fathers.

We were reminded of this when we saw LBJ grandchildren at his funeral last week: of the thirty-odd men who have become Presidents of the United States, only one, John Adams, produced a son who achieved the same high position. Many of our top executives fathered only daughters, like Nixon, Johnson and Truman. One of them, Buchanan, was not married, and others—Washington, Madison, Jackson, Polk and Harding, had no children.

Nobody can tell what the genes of the father will produce in the son; in that branch of science we are no more advanced today than we were in the time of the Caesars. Many of our Presidents were brilliant men who might have been expected to pass on high qualities to their sons, but there is little evidence of it in the records. Lincoln's surviving sons had ordinary business careers, with no sign of their father's great humanitarian instincts. Teddy Roosevelt's sons inherited none of his tremendous personality, and none of FDR's sons would have made their ancestors especially proud of them, though one of them achieved a short career in Congress. The most successful of all in the field of politics was the son of President Taft, who was at one time a powerful figure in the government of his home State.

Of especial interest to Mississippians was Zachary Taylor, elected President in 1848. He had spent many of the earlier years of his life in the State, two of them as a military commander at Bay St. Louis prior to the Mexican War. He had a son and five daughters, but little is known of their subsequent lives. It is often said that lives of great men all remind us that we should strive to make the most out of living, and of course only thirty-odd men achieved the pinnacle of the Presidency; presumably their sons were like the rest of us, good, hard-trying men who did what they could for themselves and their families. But they lacked some spark, they missed some distribution of genes, and never achieved the greatness of their fathers.

And what about the girls? As might be expected, none of the daughters became Presidents or even aspired to the honor; as a matter of fact, only one woman has been a candidate for the Presidency. She was Victoria Woodhull, nominated for the office in 1872 by the National Woman's Suffrage Association, the same year that President Grant was elected to a second term. Incidentally, it was interesting to see, a long time ago, a list of the Presidents up to 1830, rated according to their quality of service. Grant and Harding were the last names on the list.

DECISIONS! DECISIONS!

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir,

The evening of January 25, 1973, Bay St. Louis Fire Department answered a call to an address on St. John Street. After the fire truck arrived on scene, a fireman pulled a hose to the nearby fire hydrant, making the necessary hookup.

Turning the water valve to an on position, the water fire hydrant was a dud. NO WATER. The fire truck however did have a limited amount of water on board. At that time the firemen went into a panic, young firemen stumbling over waterhoses, yelling at each other, etc., completely unorganized. Upon arrival of the Waveland-Pass Christian Fire Department the home was completely destroyed. Pass Christian Fire Dept and volunteers were able to save the house next door.

I, as a taxpayer, as many other taxpayers in Bay St. Louis, are ashamed to admit that our city is so weak in fire protection. The Fire Chief living in nearby town arrived late on the scene and rendered no supervision when he did arrive.

The way I observed the firemen, they displayed weakness, inability to fight a fire and a lack of experience. This is the way I observe the fire department in action, and I am sure many residents of this city were impressed with the same opinion. After the house fire on Highland Drive last year, there was a meeting with city officials concerning updating the fire hydrants and equipment. It was stated at this meeting that action would be taken to carry out the taxpayers request.

I wish to appeal to the Mayor of Bay St. Louis and city officials to take necessary action immediately to strengthen the fire department and weed out dead weight. Think about Fire Protection for our children in school, Mr. and Mrs. Bay St. Louis, it could be your home next.

Harold J. Saucier
Elmer E. Boyd

Dear Sir,

I don't know where to start this letter, there is so much I want to say. I do know one thing, if your house catches on fire, you just as well walk out and let it burn. The fire department, if you can still call it that, is about as good as the people you have in City Hall, they don't have anything but a bunch of kids, and they don't have proper training. They demonstrated that at the fire on St. John Street Thursday night January 25th. This house was destroyed, when according to witnesses at the scene, the fire truck got there while the fire was only in the kitchen. Mrs. Eloise Necaise the owner of the house, tried to get one of the firemen (if you can call them firemen) to go in the house with her and they refused, at which time they could have extinguished it with a chemical fire extinguisher, with not even water damage to the rest of the house, but no one knew what to do. The Fire Department said they did not have water in the line out there, but they should have known about that and dropped a hose at St. John and St. Francis, then they would have had all the water they needed. The fire department might say they didn't know there was no water out there.

When I was fire chief I had an understanding with the water department if a line was dead, they would inform me, and I also had a man check the fire hydrants every 45 days. The fire chief is too busy trying to get his name and picture in the paper to tend to his job properly. Bill Frisbie said they had a line from St. Francis, I was there about 35 minutes after the fire started and there was no line from St. Francis then. The Department is losing a lot of time putting on safety clothing, which is not often needed, and anyone who is a good fire fighter knows that the first three or four minutes of a fire is critical, and could mean the difference whether you save a house or lose it. Two men, one of them a former fire chief, picked up a hose that was laying on the ground and started to help fight the fire and the police threatened to arrest them. With a Fire Dept. like that, you can look for your insurance rates to go up. The men who picked up the fire hose were Harold Saucier and Charles Favre. The only way we are going to get out from under this kind of thing is with our votes in May. I understand two of them are going to run, I hope people will show better judgment. Harold Saucier said he heard the whistle blow, he then got in his truck and drove over there from DeMontluzin St. near Toulme St., and when he got there, there was not a hose on the ground.

Dear Sir:

Here is just a citizens comment on the meeting, Saturday the 20th with Earl "Buck" Lader and Martin Smith, at the Wheel Inn. I wish to state that I believe these two men are sincere, in striving toward their goals, in working for the people, their constituents, who placed them where they are and they can realize the harsh problems of Senior Citizens, on low fixed income; also see through the injustices in various instances, which many of our citizen tax payers experience in their daily lives.

Trent Lott is another one, recently elected representing the Fifth District of ours, in Washington. He has mailed out to the citizen voters, and all who are interested in the serious issues facing our Nation, a post card, listing the important subjects, which should concern every American. Let us all join in and return these cards with the recognition of fulfillment as requested by our faithful and conscientious Congressman Lott; also let us not fail to present ourselves as concerned citizens, at all the meetings conducted by our Senators and Representatives, who are in a position to hear and help us. After all, we the people make up the State. If these men can spare the time and effort to see us in person, where we can discuss with them, our problems and our needs, we should at least show them the courtesy and recognition for their efforts to carry out their duties in their respective political office. In closing I must add this was quite a lively meeting and very well attended by a crowd of interested citizens.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Everett McRie

With ease the House of Representatives passed a bill which would cut income tax $16.2 million a year. Passage of the bill, by a vote of 119 to 2, came less than an hour after the bill was presented on the floor by the Ways and Means Committee.

Basically, the House approved income tax cut would: 1. Increase the personal exemption for married couples and heads of households from $6,000 to $7,000 and the personal exemption for single persons from $4,000 to $5,000; 2. Install a new $500 personal exemption for each dependent other than the taxpayer and provide an additional personal exemption of $500 for persons over 65 or blind persons; 3. Exempt retirement allowances, pensions, annuities or other payments from social security, federal railroad retirement, civil service or military systems; 4. Would be retroactive to January 1, 1973.

The following are bills which are on the House calendar and awaiting floor action.

Superdome will be maintained through its own revenues and the hotel-motel tax.

The colossal bubble will have about 125 million cubic feet of space completely enclosed by a dome 273 feet high into which Houston's Astrodome could be easily fitted, Levy pointed out.

Explaining the sub-surface construction, Levy stated that if all the pillars in the base of the stadium were laid end to end they would stretch from New Orleans to Baton Rouge, a distance of 83 miles. Other mind-boggling statistics included connecting parking garages for 5,000 cars, 89 rest rooms and a total seating capacity of 97,365 in plush theatre-style seats.

The Superdome has already had an impact on the economy of not only Louisiana but Mississippi as well, Levy said. There are now 830 construction workers on the facility on a $45,000 daily payroll. In the coming year the figures are expected to increase to $1.25 million payroll for 1,200 workers, many of whom now commute from the Gulf Coast area. In addition, he said, Gulf Coast Prestressed Concrete Company has a $1 million sub-contract to install concrete gutter tubes and the drainage system for the stadium, which is something of an engineering feat in itself, Levy added humorously.

In an effort to allay public fears of disastrous traffic jams following massive events in the Superdome, Levy said parking and exit systems have been designed so that people will leave the dome "in four directions at the same time, many walking, several blocks to nearby parking lots rather than all going in the same direction at the same time."

Generally regarded as a huge athletic stadium, the Superdome has been designed also for entertainment and cultural events, conventions, circuses, stage plays and trade shows. Also housed in the building will be restaurants, refreshment stands, lounges, shops, 64 private suites and even a medical clinic open to the public year-round.

Speaking of the booking possibilities, Levy said that he had suggested as the ultimate achievement in bookings bringing the Democratic and Republican National conventions to the Superdome—simultaneously.

"I'll bet we could sell a few tickets to that," he said with a smile.

The original projected opening date of June 5, 1974 has been delayed to August or early September of next year, Levy said. In planning an opening ceremony in keeping with the uniqueness of the spectacular structure, Levy added, "You don't spend $152 million for what others have described as the greatest facility of all time to dedicate it with the usual feeble ribbon cutting, with apologies to the Mayor present."

What the commission was considering instead is a World Conference with the seven main continents of the world participating in a week-long opening, each one presenting the best of its own entertainment for a four-hour period each evening.

"It's time we stood up on our haunches and let Florida and Texas know what it's all about," Levy said in conclusion. "This project was born in legal controversy, survived many legal tests and became a political football during the recent gubernatorial race," he said matter-of-factly, but the perseverance of those who had faith in the value of the enterprise won out over adversities and the Superdome is now a reality.

Reflections

WHEN THE SJA Carnival Ball Association presented its first ball in 1934, Charles Moreau and Miss Marie Bertrand of Pass Christian reigned as King and Queen. Although the method for selecting the King and Queen have changed, the purpose of the ball, to raise money for the school (now Our Lady of the Gulf), has never changed. This year, the SJA Carnival Ball will be held March 2 at St. Joseph Gymnasium. Moreau was founder, editor and publisher of The Sea Coast Echo from 1892-1942. Photos courtesy of the SJA Carnival Ball Association. (Readers are urged to submit photos to the Echo for use in Reflections. Pictures will be returned unharmed at the Echo office. Use of all photos is left to the discretion of the editor.)

Chamber Presents Awards; Names New Board Members

Urging the people of Hancock County to "promote our community, not knock it," Perry Gibson ended his term as president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in a speech before Chamber members at the annual membership banquet last Wednesday night at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Gibson said that he felt at the beginning of his term that "nothing could really change until we had a change of attitude." He thanked all who had helped him during the past year and called "Hancock County a great place to live."

E. J. Marengo presented Gibson a plaque and said "Perry Gibson is one of the most outstanding presidents we've ever had."

Certificates of appreciation were presented to outgoing members of the Board of Directors: Garland Belote, Edward F. Beyer, Ray Bordages, William Breland, Daniel Campion, Russell Chapman, Terry Feeney, J.

Ruble Griffin, Rev. Charles Johnson, Alton Kellar and Ames Kergosien.

Marengo, for the accomplishments of his Membership Committee; and Nicholas Haas for his work as chairman of the Education Committee.

Seven new board members were named to serve for a two-year term. Those elected by the general membership are: P.D. (Sonny) Bailey, owner Bailey Electric; Nanci L. Campbell, Bay Bureau chief, The Daily Herald; George M. Cleary, employed by Commodity Credit of New Orleans; Mrs. Anita D. Seals Injured; Out For Season

Kenny Seals, star guard for the Pearl River College Wildcats, will miss the remainder of the 1973 basketball season, according to Head Coach Billy Holmes. Kenny sustained a dislocated shoulder and a gash in his left knee last Thursday night against the Co-Lin Wolves.

Seals, a freshman from Hancock North Central, has been a starter for the Cats all season. In the game against the nationally ranked Wolves he had scored six of the Wildcats eleven points before being forced to leave early in the game.

Coach Holmes stated, "Losing Kenny is really a big blow to us, he was a real good ball handler and scorer but most of all he was a team leader."

Doctors report that the injuries should be completely healed in six to eight weeks, and Kenny's basketball career should not be affected.

Two unbiased panels of auto experts took a close look at all the '73 cars. Tested them thoroughly. Based upon these tests...

Ford won "Car of the Year" in Road Test's competition.

Ford LTD won "Full-size Sedan of the Year" in Motor Trend's competition.

A close look shows why restyled Fords (LTD's and Galaxie 500's) won top awards. Motor Trend said, "The clincher was Ford's stock in trade: a super-quality interior, isolation from noise."

Standard luxuries scored big: 351 V-8, automatic transmission, power steering and brakes, power ventilation, bodyside moldings, and more. You'll like the spacious Ford Front Room. Full-length door armrests. Plush carpeting.

New instrument panel for maximum driver and passenger convenience.

Optional better ideas: Fingertip Speed Control, Select-Aire Conditioner plus Automatic Temperature Control, AM/FM Stereo Radio with Tape Player and dual speakers front and rear.

New remote-control right-hand mirror. Power Mini-vent.

More for '73. A glove box bigger than any of Ford's standard-size competitors. Options like a remote control right-hand mirror that's driver adjustable. Power Mini-vents on 4-Door Fords. An improved electric rear window defroster.

New Anti-theft Alarm System. Side-door Steel Guard Rails. Steel-belted radial ply tires.

For driving peace of mind... optional steel-belted radial ply tires. Standard safety features include side-door Steel Guard Rails, an Energy Absorbing Bumper System, and more. And there's a new optional Anti-theft Alarm System.

So much is new we invite your close look. Road Test calls the '73 Ford "the finest family car to be found at its price in showrooms today."

Quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

"Invitation To A March" is being produced by Lt. L.A. Onstad with Joseph Servat as technical director.

Bourn-Soffra Exchange Vows

Miss Kathy Lynn Soffra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Soffra of Bay St. Louis, became the bride of Don Craig Bourn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Bourn, also of Bay St. Louis, at 6 p.m. January 24 in the Assembly of God Church, Waveland. Rev. E.L. Stewart, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white polyester knit street length dress fashioned with lace sleeves low neckline and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Debra Johnston, Bay St. Louis, who served her sister as matron of honor, wore a rose polyester knit dress with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Billy Pursley was best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with a three tiered cake trimmed with pale pink spun sugar roses topped with a traditional bride and groom ornament. Arrangements of roses completed the table decorations. Mrs. Diana Cox and Mrs. Jewel Bourn presided at the cake table.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a brown suit, matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The couple will make their home in Waveland.

Midday Prepares Local Features

Mrs. Ellen Hardeman and Bill Delgado photographer, of the Midday Show on WDSU were guests today of Col. and Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet. The two are preparing data to be used by Terry Flettrich on Midday.

Subject matter includes the Waveland Krewe of Nereids Carnival organization, the demolition of St. Joseph Academy, the Trinity Episcopal Church and Parish House in Pass Christian which will be open to all ladies of the Gulfcoast community and their guests as well as ladies from New Orleans when the February 14 Valentine Silver Tea is to be sponsored by the St. Monica Group of that organization.

The folk art of sand bottle work done by Colonel and Mrs. Elmo Nolan of Pass Christian is also on the agenda.

Mrs. Pilet said: "Although Trinity Episcopal Church dates from a mission established in 1846, this year marks the 75th anniversary of women's active organization within the church. The Planning Committee for the silver tea felt that opening the parish house and adding a guided tour of the church would give many an opportunity to see the structures which duplicate the lovely old Gothic buildings destroyed during Hurricane Camille."

Mrs. John McCloskey, president of the St. Monica Chapter has named as committee women to work toward the tea Mmes. Walter Carter, Thomas Fowler, William Lovett, G. Watson Prindville, S.K. Jones, A.M. Dantzer, Frederick Kohl, Boni De Laureat, and Dr. Celestine Linnstaedter, all of Pass Christian and Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis.

In addition to the president of the St. Monica group those in the receiving line will include Mrs. Robert Bird of Long Beach, Mmes. Herman DeVries and George Arneaux, also Dr. Celestine Linnstaedter all of Pass Christian.

Pourers at the double service planned for the tea will be selected from former chapter officers.
